WOMAN'S CLUB ACTIVITIES

"If there isn't something going on, it's a fair return for the club." A fair return for the club, if there isn't something going on, is a fair return for the club. And exchange is with most. Although the above verse from the year book of the Oneonta Woman's club expresses the sentiment of club membership, a closer examination will show that the exchange of goods and services is not only to its members, but in many respects to the community. The club's activities are probably very well known to its own members but not so well known to others. One of the exceptions to this rule, however, was a business man, who in speaking of the Woman's club recently, expressed his opinion that the organization in Oneonta, one that did much with little and whose influence reached considerably beyond the 284 women whose names are listed on the membership.

A number of the committee work for the club and its members also while others supplement the social service and civic activities of other organizations. One of these last is the Recreation and Social Service committee which works hand in hand with the Family Social Work association. It is a standing committee offering its services at Christmas time or in case of an epidemic or emergency when aid and help is needed.

The Civic Improvement committee is interested primarily in beautifying the town. About eight years ago the committee built the park pavilion and planted the avenue of elm trees that add much to the picturesque beauty of the place. This year they expect to replace 15 of the trees that have died and to plant a hedge of shrubs from the entrance of the park to the beginning of the avenue. This committee also gives its financial support to recreation work.

The Choral club with its 25 members comes under the management of the Music committee, and meets at the club house once every week. The Choral club is planning an entertainment to be given in January and a concert of old fashioned hymns and Christmas carols to be given in December. If the community Christmas tree is held this year they will also furnish music for that occasion. Only members of the Woman's club are included in the Choral club at present but outsiders may join by paying 25c for each class.

Child Welfare Sewing Classes. The Child Welfare Committee has charge of the 10 sewing classes that are held at the club house every Saturday afternoon. The classes are intended for needy children and include 70 members of four different ages, those of the fourth year being far enough advanced to make dresses. The program for each class includes sewing, music and refreshments are served at every meeting by some of the club members who act as hostesses and teachers for the children.

The members of the graduating class in turn become members of the Blue Bird club which meets at the Community house, but is maintained by the Woman's club. These girls are given instruction in advanced sewing and are entertained several times during the year.

In former years the Philanthropic committee did a great deal of the Social Service work now carried on by other organizations in Oneonta. The committee now serves as a financial aid to the club, contributing funds for the sewing class and sending out supplies to needy families at Christmas time.

The club activities intended for the benefit of members alone are included in the seven or more classes arranged by the Class committee and held at the club. The remark is often heard that something educational is going on at the Woman's club every day and an investigation of the varied class work will prove the truth of the statement.

The Travel class, which meets on Monday afternoons, has chosen South Africa as a topic of study for this year and is treating the subject from the standpoint of exploration, settlement, colonization and extension, war, including the condition from the Boer war to the World War, the results of the World War and a final chapter on touring South Africa with hunters and travelers.

Shakespeare Class Active.

The Shakespearean class was one of the first to be formed by the Woman's club and has always been popular. Its members this year are studying the principles and history of drama and the making of English verse. In February they will present Shakespeare's "Henry VIII."

Under the direction of Mrs. Louise Horton Clark, a graduate of the Greek College of Dramatic Art in Boston, the Dramatic Art class, one of the newest having been formed just this year, is proving both helpful and entertaining. Its 25 members are at present studying pantomime, posing and impromptu speaking. They expect later to take up the study of legitimate play writing in preparation for a contest to be given in March.

The Cooking class gives four cooking demonstrations at the club during the year and the demonstrators test a number of new recipes each time.

The Current Events class meets once every two weeks for an informal discussion of current topics.

One of the most enjoyable features of the club program is the open house which is held every Thursday afternoon.

The club rooms including the library, recreation room, lecture room and kitchen are open to its members at all times and are seldom if ever used by any other organization. Current issues of the following publications are to be found on the library table: American, American Cookery, Arts and Decoration, Atlantic Monthly, Guide, General Federation, Harper's, House and Garden, Literary Digest, Nature Magazine, National Geographic, Travel, Vogue and World's Work.

The Oneonta Woman's club was organized February 12, 1919, was incorporated August 28, 1924, and joined the state federation in 1926. The club now has 284 resident members and 32 non-resident members.

FAIRCHILD MEMORIAL

Notable Creation of Monumental Work Completed for Hon. G. W. Fairchild

Monument and Classic Design, Its Grandeur Lends a Dignity and Stately Beauty to the Memorial Work—Entire Plot Enclosed in Artistic Coping of Barre Granite—Work Completed by Dauley & Wright.

On the high bluff near the westerly bounds of Glenwood cemetery and overlooking the valley of the St. Lawrence and the home city of the late Hon. George W. Fairchild has recently constructed one of the choicest memorial plots to be found in Central New York. Its beauty and artistic simplicity appealing to all who have seen it. The work, with the exception of the grading and landscaping, having recently been completed. The task was entrusted to Dauley & Wright of this city, and this well known firm has fully sustained its enviable reputation for high grade work. The monument and the coping surrounding the plot are imposing to view, while its simplicity coupled with its richness of design gives an effect that is most pleasing to the sense of harmony and artistic taste.

The great granite Barre, Vermont, granite, of which some 70 tons have been required to complete the memorial, is all fine axed finish and of such uniform texture and color as to evidence the utmost care in selection, and also carefully sealed at joints, as to give one an impression that without careful scrutiny, it has been carved in its entirety from the quarry.

The monument, erected in memory of his late wife, Josephine Sherman Fairchild, is of classic design. Greek in adaptation and while massive and true is graceful in every line and the true proportions prevailing gives a dignity and beauty seldom equalled in memorial art. It consists of two columns, die and cap. The subbase is elevated, feet and two inches long, with proportionate depth. It is placed at the commanding spot in the large plot.

The main plot consists of nine regular sized cemetery lots, totaling in size 55 by 46 feet, while on the south side is a tenth lot which connects the plot with the driveway on that side and provides an approach to the main plot, 21 feet in length and 18 feet wide from the roadway to the entrance steps to the plot.

The chief feature of the memorial, other than the monument, is the coping of Barre granite, enclosing the entire plot. This is all one foot in thickness and ranges in height above the ground from 18 to 40 inches, according to location on this gradually sloping plot, the straight lines of this coping relieving the slope of the land materially. The general contour of the plot is most unusual, there being a difference between the low and high point of about 11 feet. The coping carries out the same style of architecture as displayed in the monument, thus furnishing perfect harmony in design and finish.

At the entrance to the burial plot proper are eight granite steps leading up to the approach, these steps being cut in one solid piece of granite, eight feet six inches wide and eleven feet six inches long. At each side of the approach and at either side of the steps at the top are four granite posts, the coping and the approach, from the steps back through the approach in the center is a granite walk five feet wide and 21 feet long or the full length of the lot forming the approach, connecting with the main plot, at which point another granite step is placed for entrance to the main family plot.

The marker is two feet and ten inches long, designed to correspond with the monument, with the inscription on its top. The one word, Fairchild, also in raised letters, is the only inscription on the monument itself, and the name also appears on the entrance step to the family plot. The entire memorial is the conception of Mr. Fairchild, the technique and detail designing being the handiwork of I. S. Dauley, of the firm of Dauley & Wright.

A WORLD-FAMOUS ENGINEER

John L. Harper, Native of North Kortright, and Vice-President and Chief Engineer of Niagara Falls Power company, Dies Thursday in Buffalo.

North Kortright, Nov. 30.—A thunderbolt from a clear sky, bringing profound sorrow to many hearts, was the news that reached here Saturday night, of the death of John L. Harper of Niagara Falls, who was born 55 years ago in this community, now occupied by his aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Harper, and his brother, Herbert W. Harper. Through defective wire service the message sent just after Mr. Harper's death Thursday night did not reach here, and the first intimation of his demise was received by family by telegram. When a notice of it in New York daily papers. His brother started that night, taking a train from Binghamton, to attend the funeral held at the home of the deceased this (Sunday) afternoon.

Mr. Harper died following an operation performed last Monday. He was vice president and chief engineer of the Niagara Falls Power company and had been associated with Niagara Falls development since 1902. He was a recognized authority on hydro-electric engineering and was the originator of a plan for the construction of remedial works in the upper Niagara river to distribute the flow of water and prevent uneven erosion of the famous Horseshoe falls. He designed the first hydro-power tunnel in America and planned and directed an $11,000,000 power development scheme recently completed in Niagara Falls.

Besides his parents and brother, Mr. Harper is survived by his wife, two sons and three daughters, all of whom will have the sincere sympathy of a multitude of friends.

KLAN AND COLORED CHURCH

K. K. K. Presents Money at Concert Given by Southern Quartet on Saturday Evening—Entertainment One of Enjoyable Music.

Proceeding the concert given by the Sweeney quartet at the Chapin Universalist church on Saturday evening, Rev. Washington, pastor of the African Methodist Episcopal church for whose benefit the entertainment was given, read a letter from the Ku Klux Klan announcing that that organization had contributed a sum of $16 to the church. In behalf of the African church, Rev. Washington further expressed appreciation to the ministers of the city and to The Star for their aid in presenting the Sweeney quartet, whose concert proved a most successful one, $119 having been realized as the net proceeds of the entertainment.

The entertainment features of the concert were equally successful, the program for the evening consisting of negro spirituals, plantation songs and old time favorites, which, being rendered by what is considered the best negro quartet in the country, could not fail to please. The quartet gave in all 23 numbers, the first five of which were familiar negro songs such as "There's a Meeting Here Tonight," "Do You Call that Religion?" and "Roll Jordan Roll."

These were followed by several ensemble numbers, rendered by banjos, guitars and the Sweeney River piano harp, the only one of its kind in the country. A particularly interesting feature of the entertainment was the reading of a number of poems from Paul Lawrence Dunbar, the famous negro poet. These could, of course, receive the truest interpretation and rendering from a negro reader as was the case when one of the quartet gave, "When de Corn Pone's Hot," "A Hundred Years Ago Today," "When Melinda Sings" and a number of others.

Several other solos, including "Old Kentucky Home" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," were rendered by the second tenor, the chorus being given by the entire quartet. Following the first intermission, the quartet appeared in the costume of the plantation negro and gave the well known song, "I've Been Working on de Railroad," which proved the hit of the evening. Another popular number was "Old Black Joe," given by one of the singers wearing the characteristic garb of the old southern negro, and accompanied by the Sweeney harp and guitars.

The church was packed for the occasion, the audience being highly pleased with the harmony, comic tricks and dramatic ability of the singers as well as with the entirely original aspects of their entertainment.

Hunt's Washington Letter

BY HARRY B. HUNT

NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON—A tag-of-war between Coolidge and anti-Coolidge forces in the present Congress is in prospect as the House forms for the short session just beginning.

The division of forces in Congress for the next three months will not be along wholly partisan lines. It will not even be Democratic and "insurgents" against the "regular" Republicans.

For a more important understanding of the situation, the regulars themselves will have a bearing on legislation and the general course of Congress even more far-reaching than anything the combined Democrats and insurgents can do during the next three months.

This division is becoming apparent, particularly in the Senate, between Republicans who are cool to Coolidge the right to decide what legislation should or should not be enacted during his term as chief executive and those who will stand on the Congressional right to organize and legislate on the Congress itself may determine; cabinet decision or in substance of the executive.

For instance, the surface there will be a sharp line between the cool and the hot group in Congress. The cool group will be the one that will stand on the Congressional right to organize and legislate on the Congress itself may determine; cabinet decision or in substance of the executive.

While the Coolidge is up and the party is looking to follow the Coolidge, the hot group will be the one that will stand on the Congressional right to organize and legislate on the Congress itself may determine; cabinet decision or in substance of the executive.

For Satisfaction And Comfort Shop Early

Early shopping is really a pleasure—it saves overtime work for worn out clerks and delivery-men.

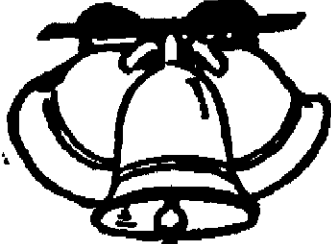

You get what you want when you shop early.

So—for the consideration of everybody, SHOP EARLY.

It is more to your advantage than anyone else's to get your shopping done early.

The stock from which to choose things is complete.

There is less crowding in the stores—the clerks are able to give you better service.

Selecting the usual Christmas gift—wearables, books, pictures, jewelry—will not trouble you. It is the one distinctive gift—that will make this year's total giving different from last year's and those of previous years—that's the task which puzzles you.

Here is a suggestion. Adopt it, and the matter will be settled—settled richly and satisfactory—and your Christmas shopping will have been made easy.

The usual gifts are seldom durable,—a few weeks or a few months, and their usefulness or their value is gone. Nevertheless we must continue to give them—Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without them. The thing to do is to add the supreme gift!

And you would not be alone in doing it. Thousands and thousands of husbands and fathers in recent years have given the supreme gift. It has become a Christmas Custom, rapidly growing in observance as the years go by.

This describes it: A document, handed to the wife on Christmas Day, under which she would receive a check for a stated amount each month of her life if you should be taken away. Christmas Day at home guaranteed to her and your children as long as she lives—sure shelter for her and them—with the Christmas table and gifts;—sure education for the children; freedom from burden and care; all provided by the husband and father, just as he is doing it now; the supreme gift of this year's Christmas Day! It would make her happy, would it not?—would be one more indisputable proof of your loving care for her? And what peace of mind you would have in knowing that her future was assured—that every month, regularly, a month's provision—which no one could take away—would come to her down to the latest month of the last year of her life.

Perhaps you have already arranged for this provision. Perhaps, however, you have a little daughter! If you have, she is your life's treasure. You often wish you could know what the future has for her—whether or not she will be happy—whether or not you will be here after she has grown up, to guard her if she should need you. You cannot tell how long you will be here, but you can do the next best thing. Let this supreme gift be for her. Fix it so that each month of each year, if you should go, she shall receive a fixed sum—absolutely her own—that neither husband nor anyone else can touch. A little income so often smooths a woman's troubled path, and sometimes it is salvation for her. Give yourself the satisfaction of knowing that you have done your utmost to protect this little one who dwells in your heart of hearts.

This is the supreme gift. Can you find a better one to give distinction to this year's list of presents? Decide now, and it will not take long to put the contract into your hands. "Do your Christmas Shopping Early!"—and it will be done with and done well!

DOUGHBOY REMAINS BACKBONE OF ARMY

Pershing Declares Experience Fails to Show Where He Has Been Superseded

Washington, Nov. 30. — War experience and peace time tests thus far made do not "altogether warrant" conclusions that either scout or defense or battle ship protection can be dispensed with General John J. Pershing finds in his last annual report as chief of staff of the army, made public Saturday at the war department.

Summing up both actual experience with airplane bombing results in the world war and subsequent bombing tests against aerial attack, the former commander of the American Expeditionary Forces said:

"Of course, some damage was done by aircraft bombing, and it would seem to be somewhat greater in another war, but until it becomes really more powerful than at present demonstrated, then it cannot be said that we are in a position to abandon past experience in warfare."

General Pershing declares, however, that the most vital present need of the army is an increase in the air service and gradual development of its personnel and equipment. Especially because of its ability to observe enemy movement, he declared, the air service is essential to armies in the field, although the infantry is still the backbone of the attack and the role of other arms is to help it reach the enemy.

"The idea that the principles of warfare have changed and that armed contests will be settled in any other way have nothing substantial in our experience to warrant serious consideration," General Pershing added.

FARM LABOR NEEDS MORE SUPERVISION SAYS FOUNDATION

Adoptive Agencies Would Prevent Scarcity of Workers at One Place and Like Men at Another Section of Country

STATE FARM BUREAUS ASSIST

New York, Nov. 30. — Orderly recruiting and distribution of farm labor is one of the largest questions confronting public employment of this state, according to a report of this type of other made today by the Russell Sage Foundation. The report is the result of a five-year study of employment methods, needs and agencies in every important agricultural section of the country and in more than 70 cities.

One of the chief obstacles to the work of the public employment office, the report states, "is that the farmer is often unfamiliar with employment office methods. He may therefore find fault with the worker of the office when his own lack of cooperation contributes directly to unsatisfactory service."

The report continues: "In the central wheat belt, where the demand for farm labor is highly seasonal, there is an unparalleled opportunity for organized effort in recruiting and distributing workers, for here we find assembled each summer the largest army of transient laborers to be found anywhere in America."

It is estimated in the report that there are approximately 2,000,000 transient farm laborers in the United States who are subject to seasonal fluctuations in the demand for labor and the necessity of moving from one place to another. As an example of the waste resulting from lack of a central agency for disseminating accurate information concerning the supply and demand of farm labor, the report points out that "10 out of 12 non-farm Bureau counties have indicated a loss of $0,037 acres of wheat in one year because of lack of wheat labor," while at the same time men are seeking farm work in other places in vain.

Reduced transportation rates for harvest hands directed to jobs through public employment agencies and the establishment of a clearly defined policy between the departments of labor and agriculture, both state and federal, in the placement of farm labor, also are recommended in the report.

WINDS DELAY BOSTON II.

Durham, O., Nov. 30. — Unfavorable atmospheric conditions kept the Boston II, one of three planes that circled the world, at McCook field today. Lieutenant John A. MacReady had received instructions to take the plane in Washington in a non-stop flight but due to the treacherous air currents over the mountains between Washington and the coast the trip was postponed. The planes Chicago and New Orleans remain in the hangar here.

President John I. Lewis as the result of the alleged failure of George Isaacs, district vice-president, to comply with Lewis' instructions, members of the executive board of district No. 1, United Mine Workers of America, will meet here tomorrow to discuss strike conditions in the anthracite fields in this section.

When 11,000 employees of the Pennsylvania Coal company walked out last week against the orders of the union officials, Lewis wired Isaacs to serve notice on the locals involved that their charters would be revoked unless the men returned to work.

The district vice president failed to carry the warning to the strikers. It is alleged, with the result that he was informed by Lewis Friday night that unless he could meet the duties of his office as acting district chief, he should tender his resignation. Appointment of Davis to assume charge of the situation in this place followed.

With the 11,000 Pennsylvania workers idle, and the 22,000 employees of the Hilsen Coal company threatening to leave a strike, call unless arrangements for a conciliation board meeting have been made not later than Saturday, the strike situation has reached such a serious stage that business men of Luzerne county are to meet at Pottsville tomorrow to ask President Lewis to come to the local district to take charge of the conditions.

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT OPPOSED BY COMMITTEE

New York, Nov. 30. — While expressing approval of progressive child labor legislation by states, the committee on territorial trade and improvement of the senate of New York also opposed the child labor amendment to the proposed constitution.

The report in part said: "The child labor amendment to the proposed constitution is a step in the right direction, but it is not a complete solution of the problem. It is necessary to have a more comprehensive law which will protect the child from all forms of exploitation."

Weeks Tells President in Report Army Unable to Fulfill Mission on Appropriations

(By the Associated Press.)

Washington, Nov. 30. — Secretary Weeks advised President Coolidge in his annual report made public Saturday that conditions in the United States army now have reached the stage where "the army is unable to fulfill its mission with regard to its necessary must be seriously considered by the legislative department of our government."

In this connection the war secretary declared the army's requirements had been studied with care and fitted into a 10-year program which should be put into effect by Congress "in a manner that will conform not only to the military needs of the military service but also to the financial condition of the government."

In another section of the report a statement was made that "the pressure for necessary progress and improvement is even greater" than the "pressure for economy." The secretary recited in detail the retrenchments made by the army in the last few years in order to effect economies and keep within appropriations made by Congress and added:

"With the funds allowed during the past fiscal year, however, it has not been possible either to carry out the full mission of the defense forces or to practice true economy."
